

Benefits of Service Learning in a Field Setting at the Field Engineering and Readiness Laboratory

The project seeks to investigate (i) the change in students' perceptions toward service learning and community involvement, and (ii) the importance of field learning to contextualize and enrich the engineering experience during a three-week wood frame activity completed as part of the FERL portion of Civ Engr 351.