

A message from the Director of Admissions:

Due to the spread of the COVID-19 virus, schools have been closed, people are quarantining themselves and daily life in general is looking a little different for people all around the world. USAFA has been affected as well, taking precautionary measures to protect our cadets, faculty and staff.

Those measures have included cancelling all outreach events and tours, as well as sending home the majority of cadets. While COVID-19 has impacted our day-to-day operations, there are some things that haven't changed.

We are still taking applications and the candidate and appointment processes are still continuing. We have every intention of bringing in a new class of outstanding cadets this summer, and would love to see you as part of it.

I would like to personally encourage you to start or continue your application. If you've already applied and been accepted (congratulations!), I strongly encourage you to complete your Appointee Kit actions and keep preparing for BCT this summer.

Our admissions counselors are still available to help applicants and candidates, and we fully intend to resume tours and other outreach events in the future, when it's safe for everyone to do so. In the meantime, if you've got questions about life at the Academy, check out our great FAQs, or tour the Academy virtually.

We look forward to reading your applications, and hopefully, seeing you as part of the Class of 2024 this summer.

Signed,
Arthur W. Primas, Jr., Colonel, USAF
Director of Admissions
United States Air Force Academy